- “The Message Has Gone Out” Chronicles:

- Joy to the world for the Lord has come and brought hope to all who would partake of his cup of light. The heavens and the sky have displayed the knowledge of his splendor and his majesty. Those who will fear the Lord will lack nothing when they keep their hearts close to him. His message has gone out that the creator of the heavens and the earth has brought forth a word of hope to all those that would believe. Now is the time to cry out to the God that answers the prayers of those that call on his name. For he is the living God to those that would find him, fear him, and cause his fruit to remain in them.
- The message has gone out: joy to the world, the Lord has come. Fear the Lord for those who fear the Lord lack nothing. Keep close to his heart. Now is the time for he answers prayer, and the fruit that remains will live on for he is the Living God.
- Tonight, we shout joy to the world for the Lord has come to this region. As we gaze into the glorious, spiritual realm, our Father allows the heaven and the sky to display the knowledge of what an awesome creator he is. The righteous that fear the Lord lack nothing from their heavenly Father. We decree the people of New Life Church will keep close to his heart, and we will see the results because God answers the prayers of the saints. In the spiritual realm, we release the message that will go forth to the lost in this area. The time is now: come to the house of the Lord. We will see the harvest and the fruit will remain at New Life if we are faithful and if we have a righteous fear of the Lord. As we stand in the sanctuary, we shout, “You, Father, are the living God, and we will worship you with great passion during this holiday season.” In Jesus’ name.
- Lord, we behold your creation. The heavens and the sky display your knowledge for all to see. By your love, all those who fear you will lack for nothing. Your majesty keeps us close to your heart and refuge and safety as you quietly answer our prayers. Your pure message of joy for this season has gone out. The time to rejoice begins now as you pour out your spirit and allow the fruit of that outpouring to remain. Let your people not shrink back in fear of you, Lord, knowing that above all you are the living God whose great love and mercy will never end. In Jesus’ name.
- Joy to the world for the Lord has come to reign; once you give it all to him, there is no more worry to gain. The heavens and the sky display knowledge from his great creation; he will rule over all the people and every nation. Those who fear the Lord lack nothing in their holy armor; stand firm against that sin spinning charmer. Love the Lord and keep close to his heart with all of your might; always look to Jesus and keep him in your perpetual sight. God answers prayers according to his holy will; keep your faith and receive his peace and be still. The message has gone out unto all of the land; put your treasure up in heaven as all of this will turn to nothing but sand. Now is the time for God's army to make a stand; let's all march in unison under his holy command. The righteous fruit that remains comes from the tree pruned by his holy hands; don't be the seed that was thrown on the shallow, rocky sands. Fear the Lord until they hang your burial wreath; don't be counted among those who will be willing and gnashing their teeth. For he is the living God who gives life to my flesh and bone; he also knows my name written on my white stone. Amen.

- Joy to the world for the Lord has come as the heavens and the sky display knowledge and declare the glory of God in the beauty of his handiwork. Your word says the fear of the Lord is clean, enduring forever, so may those who fear the Lord lack nothing as they trust in you for strength and protection. We ask the Lord to keep close to his heart those who are brought low because we know and have seen that God answers prayer. We believe the message has gone out tonight to call the sad, the grieving, the lost, the fallen, the addicted, and all within the sound of our voices to hear that now is the time—for the Lord has come to bring eternal life and joy to this world. May the fruit that remains draw life from the true vine of the Lord as we fear the Lord in the presence of our enemies. We shout and declare again, “Joy to the Lord”, for he is the living God of the universe and all of creation. In Jesus’ name, amen.
- Dan Hanselman's Prophetic word: For this is the time and this is the hour that the shaking will start. And that which is hidden that you have not been willing to deal with will cause you to stumble. But those that will come before me and let me expose, they will have mercy in the time of judgment. So, pray for mercy in the time of judgment that it does not overtake those that are lost. Pray for them, reach out to them for I have a heart for the lost. I have a heart because they are my creation. I have not forgotten them even though they might forget me. I have not forgotten them. For you will have to stand tall and strong in this hour of shaking. You have to be a tree that they can run to to get stability. You have to be a voice, my voice to them to encourage them that all is not lost. But there is joy in my house. So do not fret and do not worry! Press into me, press into me for this is the hour that I am calling my people higher: higher and to lay down that which has hindered them from coming even closer to me. For this is an hour and time for my people to be separated from the world things. It's time. It's time to show the world that you are different than what they are. That you have a hope that they cannot understand; a hope that will take you beyond anything that they can even imagine. For I will release my joy on you in this hour as you press into me. As you press, I will release my joy so that you can be my hand extended to those that are needing a helping hand. Even those in the body will need your hand because you have pressed into me, and they have not truly released themselves to come higher into my presence. So be ready in season and out of season for the word will be quickened unto you in this time, in this hour, says the Lord. Amen.
